EULESS, TEXAS arbor daze THE ULTIMATE FAMILY FESTIVAL

April 26–28, 2002
with Carnival Preview April 25

Greetings from Your Mayor

Dear Citizens,

You know when spring is here, so is our famous Arbor Daze celebration. And, what a celebration we have this year, lots of new venues and plenty of good music and food. You'll need to visit the Chef's tent with celebrity guests cooking their best. Then on Sunday afternoon we will have Jazz music for the first time. Let's hope for sunshine and good weather for another great festival.

Last year's Arbor Daze won another national award. Our festival won the "Best Arbor Daze Celebration in America."

This is the second time we have won this award and the first time any city has won this award two times. We have so much to be proud of in our city.

Since the last "Euless Today" we have opened our Police and Courts Facility located on Highway 10 at the old Western Hills Inn site. We do hope you have visited the new facility and if you purchased a brick, try and locate your brick. The police statue is so perfect for the facility.

Our "City Wide Open House" in March was well received. There were so many activities going on in Euless that day, but many of you came out to see our newly renovated facilities. Some visited the library for the first time and we will celebrate our sixth birthday in July. Many had never visited Heritage Park to see our first brick house and one hundred plus year old log cabin. There's so much history inside the cabin, and the Historical Committee members are there to tell you all about it.

We were so honored to have Daniel and Adele Bivona visit us from Staten Island, New York. Daniel is a fire fighter who was at ground zero on September 11, 2001. So many of you came to the press conference we hosted for Fire Fighter Bivona and heard some of the stories he shared. Our fire fighters really showed them some great Texas hospitality for the Bivona's first trip to Texas.

Our new siren warning system is up and running well. Please read all the information Battalion Chief Jeff Morris has provided. There is information on what to do when you hear the sirens and about the new emergency radio station we are installing.

Please read all about the police and fire programs designed for your safety. If you have not joined the police or fire academies, take the time to find out what they are all about and then become one of our educated citizens that volunteer there time and talents for our city.

As always, we thank our volunteers for all they do to make our city the great city it is. From Christmas parades, to baseball venues, to summer camps to library aides and to our famous Arbor Daze festival, we simply could not do without you. You are the best along with all our Boards and Commission members who devote so much of their time and talents. If you are not volunteering now and would like to join our super great group of volunteers, there is a telephone number inside this Euless Today. Call and find out what is available to suit your taste.

We hold municipal elections the first Saturday in May each year along with school board elections. For the first time in many years, there will be neither a municipal election nor an HEB school board election this May as there were no contenders for any office.

We have so many good things going on in Euless from new businesses to new homes to new recreational activities. I hope you will take the time to enjoy and look around and see that we are Building A Better Tomorrow for our citizens.

Midway Recreation Center has been remodeled and its doors are open

It's finally finished!! What began as a simple two-week renovation project, turned into a four and a half month project and ended up lasting almost six months. Whew!

On August 18, 2001, the Midway Recreation Center was closed for minor renovations. But during the planning process, mold was discovered inside the building. Extensive testing was performed throughout the building to ensure citizen's health and safety. And now, renovations to remove the mold as well as many other exciting renovations are finally finished.

A ribbon cutting ceremony was held on Saturday, February 23 to celebrate the improvements at the center.

During the closure, an extensive remodeling project took place. Recreation center users will find an expanded fitness center with additional equipment, new rubberized floor in the fitness center and the game area, recarpeted gym walls, recarpeted indoor track, new wallpaper, new paint, resurfaced gymnasium and racquetball courts, improvements to lighting in the racquetball courts, new countertops in the classrooms, control room and kitchen. In addition, the recreation center has a new air conditioning/heating system, new roof over the east side of the building and a new fire alarm system.

The Parks and Community Services Department and the City of Eules thank each and every one of our citizens who waited so patiently while these necessary repairs and upgrades were made. Your patience has paid off with a brighter and improved Midway Recreation Center.

Eules is prepared for spring and the severe weather that comes with it

Severe weather can occur any time of the year, but is most common in the spring. It is important to be aware of weather conditions and to stay alert during severe weather.

First, you should know the meanings of terms that are used during severe weather.

A Watch is issued when weather conditions are favorable for the formation of severe weather. During a watch, keep alert to changing conditions and prepare to take protective actions.

A Warning is issued when severe weather has been reported by spotters or is indicated by radar. During a warning, take protective actions immediately.

If a Tornado Warning is issued for our area, take shelter in an interior room on the lowest floor of the building you are in. Abandon cars or mobile homes and seek shelter in a strong building or lie flat with your arms over your head in a ditch or low-lying area. Do not use your car to try to outrun a tornado.

Sirens

Sirens may be activated for any kind of emergency — not just severe weather. Sirens are an outdoor warning system and you may not be able to hear them if you are indoors or in a noisy area. If you hear the outdoor warning sirens, go indoors and listen to local radio 1100 AM and/or television stations for more information.

Weather Alert Radios

The National Weather Service tracks weather and broadcasts weather information 24 hours a day, seven days a week. Weather alert radios can provide immediate notification of severe weather or other emergencies by activating a tone when a watch or warning is issued, thereby increasing the time you have to take protective actions. The latest models can be programmed to alert only for severe weather or other emergencies in our area. Weather alert radios are available at many electronic stores as well as some department stores.

Radio/Television

The City of Eules is currently installing a low power AM radio station located at 1100 on the AM dial. On this channel you will be able to receive up-to-date information regarding any emergency occurring in the City of Eules. Local radio and television stations are an excellent source of information about severe weather or other emergencies. Know which stations provide local news and weather and tune to them during severe weather or other emergencies.

Questions or More Information

Please call the City of Eules Emergency Management Office at 817-685-1600.

The City recently finished installing a new siren system in Eules. The high sound output covers more than four square miles per siren.

An emergency advisory radio system is also being installed at 1100 AM.

In the event of an emergency, the sirens will sound. When you hear the siren, tune to 1100 AM on your radio to hear the nature of the emergency, where to seek shelter and any other vital information.

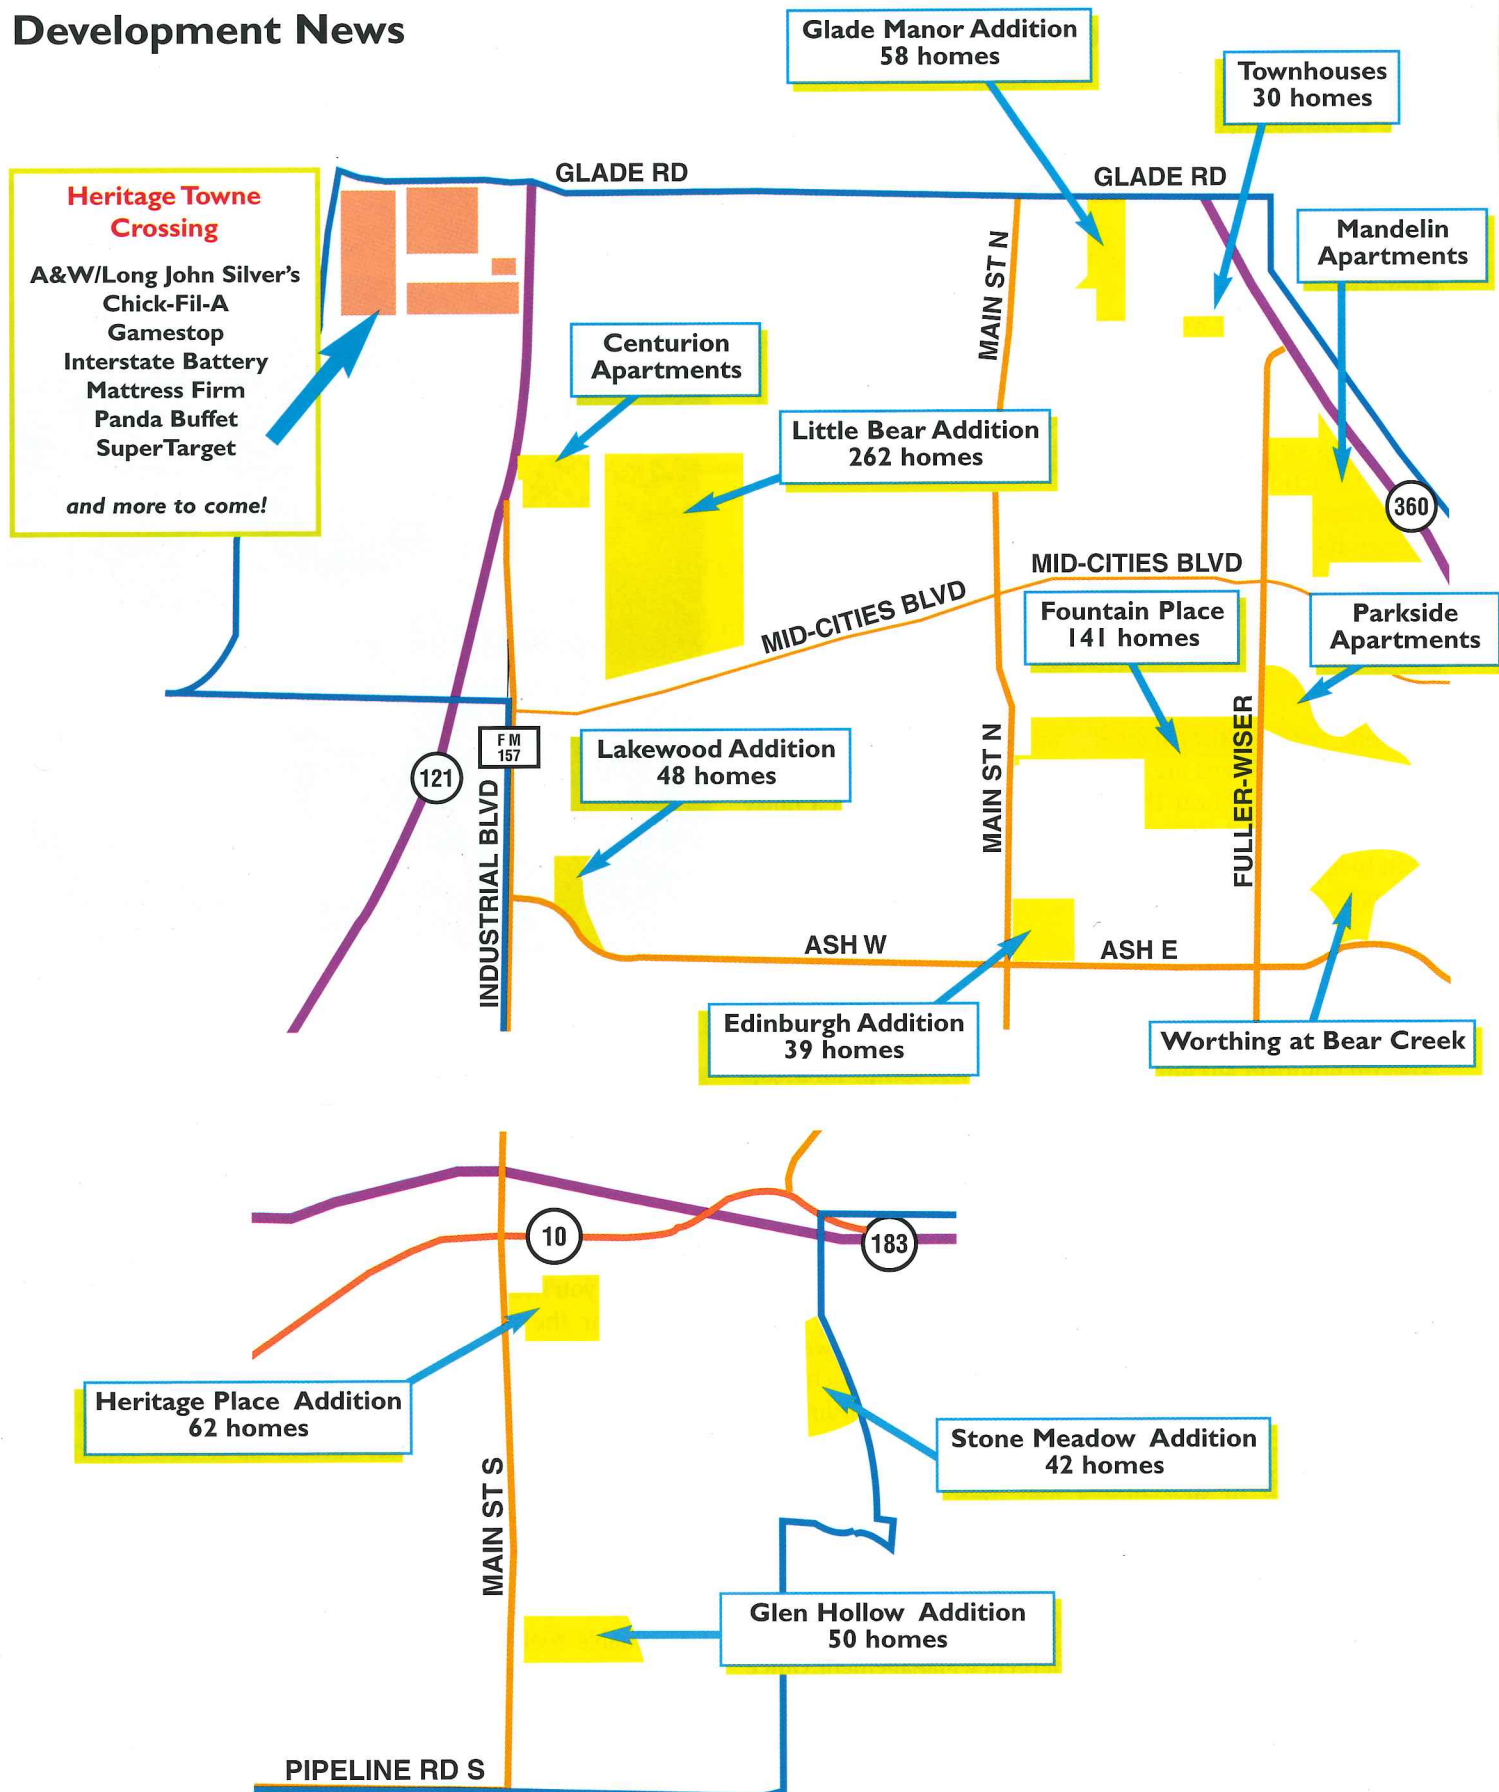

According to Jeff Morris in the Emergency Management office, local residents can receive up-to-date reports, alerts and general information with the level of timeliness and details that makes the service invaluable, especially when disaster strikes.

During other times, the radio station can serve as a valuable tool to disseminate information such as road closures, upcoming events and construction updates.

Spotlight on Euless' Municipal Judge

Firm, but fair. What else could you ask from your local city judge? Well, add friendly and down-to-earth to that list. I must admit that I was somewhat apprehensive about meeting with Judge Lacy Britten; after all, there is that intimidating title before her name. I knew absolutely nothing about the Municipal Court. So when I met with Judge Britten, I was brutally self-conscious of my lack of knowledge of the judicial system.

But when I walked into her office that changed completely. Raised in a small (and when I say small, I mean Little House on the Prairie – Walnut Grove small) farming community by the name of Kelton, Texas; her graduating high school class consisted of only five students. Upon graduation, she studied undergraduate courses from Baylor before studying for her Law Degree. Judge Britten is as down to earth as they come. Her laid back demeanor put me completely at ease. But don't let that fool you! When it comes to "laying down the law," so to speak, she isn't so passive. She runs her courtroom on the basis that everyone who walks in the doors will be treated equally. Without regard to sex, religion, nationality or even position within the community. The law is applied according to the crime and situation. Period. Her words of advice? "No matter what you do, treat everyone the same, and you'll never end up in the papers."

But how many of us really know what the Euless Municipal Court is all about? Here is a short government lesson. The Municipal Court is for Class C offenses. That means minor offenses, punishable only by court fines, which generally cannot exceed $500 per offense. This would include, but is not limited to, traffic tickets, theft under $50, simple assault, or public intoxication. For minors, it could mean DUIs (Driving Under the Influence), failure to attend school or disruption of class.

The Municipal Court also conducts Towing Hearings, where you may request a hearing to determine if there was probable cause to tow and impound your vehicle. If it is determined that there was not probable cause, then a reimbursement of the costs would be made to you. The Court also holds Property Hearings, in which if your stolen property ends up in a pawn shop within the Euless city limits, you can request a hearing to determine who the owner of the property is, and upon that determination, the property will be returned to the correct owner.

Although many of the cases that Judge Britten hears are traffic violations, the cases she really enjoys are the ones dealing with juveniles. Coordinated with Hurst and Bedford, Euless is involved in a Teen Court Program, respectively called the HEB Teen Court. When a minor pleads guilty to his/her crime, and the crime is not of a serious nature, the guilty teen will pay a $20 fee which helps pay for the program and then is assigned to the HEB Teen Court. Held in Bedford, the teen is judged by a group of his peers. On less serious offenses, it could be as informal as sitting around a conference table while a group of teens listen to the case and then decide what the punishment should be. For more serious cases, an actual trial on the issue of punishment will be held. Once in the courtroom, volunteers (who are all teens) serve as jurors, prosecutors, lawyers and bailiffs. An adult attorney serves as the judge. This program works so well because not only is the offender being judged by a group of his/her own peers; but the punishment must consist of community service and the teen is required to serve as a juror on other Teen Court cases. "So, for teens, who are usually limited in funds, but rich in time, this program is perfect!" Britten said.

Another program geared toward the younger offender is called "S.T.E.P.S." (Skills to Empower People Socially). This program is for truancy violators and their parents. Once assigned to this program, the child and his/her parents will meet five times to address the problems that resulted in the child having difficulty attending school. The parents meet together, while the girls meet together and the boys meet together before everyone rejoins for final discussions. Not only do these meetings help to address the reasons behind why the child does not attend school, but it also helps determine how to either avoid these problems altogether, or how to deal with them. Either way, the hopeful response is to get the child back in school.

The toughest part of Judge Britten's job is when she has a youth standing before her in the courtroom whom she can tell will not be able to comply with the court's orders. This child has been told what it is he/she needs to do in order to reconcile the trouble they are in. "When I look into that child's face and see them pleading with their eyes for help, it breaks my heart." You see, there are many children out there whose parents are not involved in their lives. For many reasons, be it a single parent family, where the parent is working two or three jobs to make ends meet and simply does not have the time to properly supervise their child; or believe it or not, there are parents out there who just flat out don't care to take the time to watch out for their child, to make sure they get up in the mornings and go to school, or that their homework is done or even take time to be apart of that child's life.

We have many programs that are designed to help the citizens of this city. From teens to adults, the basis of The City of Euless Municipal Court is to guide the people into making good decisions. How much luckier are we to have a judge who also truly cares about the people as well? Judge Lacy Britten is a one-of-a-kind person. Her heart is deeply concerned with the well being of each and every citizen.

Firm, but fair. What else could we ask for? How about kind hearted as well?

Eules Police are revitalizing the Neighborhood Watch program

We're looking for a few good people who would like to volunteer their time and become more involved in their neighborhoods.

So far, more than 400 families have expressed an interest in being a part of the Neighborhood Watch program in Eules. But more volunteers are needed to make the program truly successful.

The Neighborhood Watch Program is part of President Bush's nationwide plan that encourages every citizen to get involved in their neighborhoods, volunteer in their communities and accomplish other small-scale efforts to deter crime and terrorism.

The police department is compiling a database so they will be able to group interested residents by their streets and police districts and effectively form, or increase, the Neighborhood Watch program in your area. Once you are part of the database, you will receive information about upcoming Neighborhood Watch meetings in your area. At the meeting, we will provide information about what you can do as a citizen to make both your home and neighborhood a safer place to live, work, and play. Please plan to attend the Neighborhood Watch meeting in your area and encourage your neighbors to do the same.

We are looking forward to holding a Neighborhood Watch meeting in your neighborhood. Thank you in advance for your time and effort toward making the City of Eules a safer place.

Please contact Lt. Mike Brown at 817-685-1552 to volunteer.

Main Street Construction Update

The fifteen houses on the west side of North Main St. have been demolished and the foundations removed. So what's next?

The relocation of utilities will begin in March and April. This will include removing the wooden poles on the west side of the street and moving some of the lines to the west and burying others underground.

The actual construction on the roadway will begin this summer.

Eules Fire Department's Safety House features hands-on instruction

It looks like a mobile home, but the Fire Department's new Safety House is a teaching tool on wheels.

Specially designed for instruction of home escape drills, the Safety House is equipped with specially designed doors to simulate the heat created by a fire. It also has a built-in smoke machine. According to Lt. Franchot Thomas, "It's as real as it gets without being the real thing."

Lessons that are taught in the Safety House include:

- Do you know what a smoke detector sounds like?
- Does your family have a home escape plan?
- Do you know what to do when your home is on fire?
- Does your family have a meeting place?
- Do you know what phone number to call in an emergency?
- Do your children know their home address?

These lessons can provide a guide for you to take home and practice there. Fire deaths and injuries can be prevented by first having and maintaining a working smoke detector in your home, and second, planning and practicing your home escape plan.

The Fire Safety House will be used at schools and special events throughout the year. It will also be on display at Arbor Daze. Please stop by for a demonstration.

For more information, call Fire Department Administration at 817-685-1600.

How do you define a hero?

According to Mohandas K. Gandhi, "Heroes are made in the hour of defeat." On September 11, 2001, our country faced an hour of defeat, but in that dark hour, many heroes emerged. One such hero is Daniel Bivona. A 20-year veteran with the New York City Fire Department, Daniel works out of Staten Island on Ladder 84 – Engine 164. Arriving at what now is called "Ground Zero," he reached the site in time to witness Building 7 (the third tower) crumble into a heap as it added to the rubble from the collapse of the Twin Towers.

Daniel Bivona, right, and an unidentified fire fighter at "Ground Zero." Bivona stated that they refer to the site as "Ground Hero."

The Eulless Fire Department recently had the honor of having Daniel and his wife, Adele, visit for a weekend. Coordinated by the U.S. Conference of Mayors, Mayor Mary Lib Saleh added the City of Eulless to the list of cities participating in this project. More than 300 cities throughout the United States adopted a New York City fire fighter for the first weekend in March.

Born and raised on Staten Island, the Bivonas have three children, Justin, 15; Daniel, 11; and Alexis, 9. The morning of September 11 started out as a typical Tuesday morning. The kids had just been dropped off at school; Daniel was outside working in the yard; and Adele was in the house. The television was on in the background as the morning chores were being completed. A news reporter broke into the local programming to announce that an airplane had crashed into the World Trade Center. Truly believing it was an accident, that the plane had just taken off and had mechanical problems, Adele went to get Daniel. They sat there together, watching the news, when the second plane hit. At that moment, Daniel looked at Adele and said "This is no accident, we are being attacked!" Flipping on their fire department scanner, they heard "Total Recall," a term that had never been heard in Daniel's 20-year career. These words were a call for all fire, police and rescue workers to report to duty.

Giving his wife a kiss along with a "don't worry," Daniel headed out the door with the promise of a phone call to keep her posted. So Adele sat and waited and waited and then waited some more. Each minute seemed like an eternity. The phone lines weren't working and the cellular lines were jammed, but after an hour, the phone finally rang. It was Daniel, he was going into the city; after pausing a moment, he said "Adele, get the kids. I want them all home. Do it now. And Adele, I love you." Her heart dropped. Uncontrollable tears began to force themselves down her face and her legs became Jell-O. Her whole body began to shake, believing that she would never speak to her husband again.

Adele and her three children would wait until midnight of that night to learn of Daniel's safety. When a knock came at the door, it would reveal an image of the man they all loved. Covered in dust, almost unrecognizable, the pain in his eyes was evident of all he had witnessed that day. He stayed long enough to give each member of his family a hug and kiss and to reassure them all that he was not hurt. Still covered in white powder, he returned to Ground Zero where he would spend the next few days digging through the ruins, looking for signs of survivors.

In a letter Daniel wrote that was recently published in Rosie magazine, he recounted the destruction he witnessed that day.

"We were aware of the incomprehensible devastation we were about to bear witness to. We stood on the bridge with the ferry captain at the helm and gazed in silence at the smoke that now replaced the Twin Towers. Getting off the ferry, we were greeted by a frantic mass of people, covered in gray soot, fleeing the city. Many of them reached out to touch our coats, and a woman said, 'God bless you and may He watch over you.'

"The air and soot were getting thicker, and with each step we took, the mountain of destruction was becoming surreal. Twisted I-beams formed an interwoven web that looked like a huge roller-coaster track. Emergency vehicles were torn in half. City buses appeared to be victims of their own bomb blasts. I prayed that I would wake up from this nightmare."

We learned so much through the Bivona's visit to Texas. There were many stories told, but one image that has stayed with me is that of nine year old Alexis hanging on to her daddy's neck, not wanting him to leave for work, fearful that he might not return.

During Daniel's visit, I overheard a conversation where he was asked how it felt to be a hero. His answer? "Heroes are all around us, in our homes, schools and people we see on a daily basis. We should look closer to home for our heroes."

On September 11, 2001, thousands of people ran out of the World Trade Center's Twin Towers in fear for their lives. But many public service personnel ran in, hoping to help people find safety. Ronnie Lott, former cornerback for the San Francisco 49ers, once said, "The greatest accomplishments occur not when you do something for yourself, but when you do something for other people."

World Class Golf

Texas Star features a unique landscape and design almost reminiscent of the Texas Hill Country. Throughout the 275 acres, players encounter rolling hills and century old oak trees with an assortment of native grasses outlining the expansive fairways.

The golf course was designed around Hurricane Creek, which meanders throughout the beautiful landscape of elevation changes, stacked rock ponds, waterfalls and natural woodlands. It is the perfect balance between nature and golf.
